Canterbury Academy's credit recovery program is based on a Self-Paced On-line Curriculum. This program allows a student to learn at any time, and from anywhere there is an Internet connection. Students are assigned the appropriate course work digitally, allowing them to learn at their own dictated pace with freedom to learn in any environment they feel comfortable. The teacher is available for any questions and functions more as a one-on-one tutor in this setting. This arrangement is good for students who learn at a different pace or require a quiet setting to learn.

After a unit of coursework is complete, the student is required to test at Canterbury Technical Academy under the supervision of an instructor, and may receive additional instruction where needed.
